

Relative uncertainty from training data per temperature or power measurement